Amazing items for you to win
Hello, Friends of Meridian!

It’s nearly “Post Time” when we’ll be in our seats ready for the “Run for Rialzo,” our eleventh charity benefit gala, racing to raise money for our spectrum of addictions services, especially our Maternal Treatment Program (MTP).

Our theme “Go, Baby, Go” captures the energy and excitement we all have for cheering on the MTP, which helps babies start their lives drug free. For the last three years, while working with partners in our community, the MTP has helped 125 moms, as 26 babies have been born without the need for extensive NICU stays...and more importantly, with a clean start in life.

But our MTP is only one way Meridian is helping win the race against addictions all over our state. From expanding our MTP into neighboring communities, to adding two new inpatient Addictions Recovery Centers, Meridian is indeed competing to win, along with the help of our Governor, whose efforts are featured here as well.

Get your hats and bow ties ready for a little “Rialzo Living,” a lifestyle we hope you’ll embrace not only on April 18 as you donate, but year round as your gifts help cheer on people recovering from addiction.

The echoes of “Go, Baby, Go” will be heard year round as we strive to help make our communities healthier.

With sincere thanks,

Hank A. Milius
President/CEO

RIALZO XI
The Derby has become the best-known horse race in North America, held annually in Louisville, Kentucky, on the first Saturday in May, and attracts the top three-year-olds from all over the country. Today, the Kentucky Derby serves as the crown jewel of the Triple Crown, drawing millions of spectators worldwide.

The race known in the United States as “The Greatest Two Minutes in Sports” for its approximate duration. For many, it is the prime example of what horse-racing once was, and what it could be, for years to come.

YOUR TRIP FOR SIX INCLUDES:
- Limousine service to the Derby from Muncie, snacks and adult refreshments provided
- 6 covered, homestretch tickets to the days races at Churchill Downs, including the Kentucky Derby
- Reservations and $500 gift card at Jeff Ruby’s Steakhouse after the Derby
- Limousine service home after dinner
- Midnight fast food meal of choice on I-69

Maternal Treatment

Meridian Health Services’ Maternal Treatment Program (MTP) was born just three years ago and already has changed the trajectory of 125 women’s lives and their families. Today, Meridian announces yet another women’s focused addiction service, a residential program serving women in a group setting.

“As the health needs have shifted, so have we,” said Hank Milius, Meridian’s president and chief executive officer. “Addiction is a scourge on our country, on our state and in our county. Not only must we raise awareness community-wide about the emerging treatments for addiction, we have to be able to provide those treatments ourselves.”

Meridian’s broad-reaching spectrum of addiction recovery programs begin with infants in the Maternal Treatment Program, where mothers enter a recovery program aimed at stabilizing a young family. But Meridian’s continuum of care will now include residential based services for women in need right here in Muncie, with the conversion of Eber House to a women’s focused recovery home.

Meridian’s continuum also includes Intensive Outpatient Treatment services, Medical Assisted Treatment, traditional outpatient services, Meridian’s Addiction and Recovery Centers (ARC) in Richmond and Lafayette, as well as the MTP.

MERIDIAN SERVED OVER 8,000 ADDICTIONS PATIENTS LAST YEAR.

In the last two years, Meridian has launched a statewide speaker series, tapping experts to discuss addiction. First, there was investigative reporter and award-winning author Sam Quinones, whose book “Dreamland: America’s Tale of Opiate Epidemic” recounts the path of opioids and how it overtook the country.

Then there was the very personal story by 1998 first round NFL draft pick Ryan Leaf, who at age 21 was the starting quarterback for the San Diego Chargers, with a $31 million contract. After 15 surgeries, he developed a dependence on Vicodin. He told the audience using the drug “killed the emotional pain. I felt nothing. I had been searching for that since I was 13 years old,” he said. “It doesn’t make you feel better. It makes you feel nothing.”

The ongoing Speaker Series is designed to get the community listening and talking more about solutions.

In addition, Meridian has intensive outpatient recovery programs that include eight to 12-week aftercare programs.

“One of my favorite quotes,” says Milius, “is by American anthropologist, Margaret Mead who said: ‘Never doubt that a group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has.’”

In the last four years, Meridian is serving 35 percent more patients with addiction needs. “In the medication-assisted treatment program, we’ve gone from serving 67 patients to nearly 500 patients using Vivitrol or Suboxone as a substitute,” said Milius.

Meridian’s Maternal Treatment Program is an outpatient treatment program that provides care and support to drug-addicted mothers and their newborn babies born suffering from withdrawal. The program’s services are designed to use whole-person health methods to prevent, educate, treat and provide community support for its patients. This helps change lifestyles of mothers in crisis, which in turn improves the outcomes for children born into addiction.
“We’re proud of our Maternal Treatment Program, which helps pregnant women fighting addiction. In the last two years, we have served more than 100 mothers. Almost one addicted mother per week; 26 babies were born who came through our program, and none of them had extended stays in the NICU (which are normally up to 4 weeks).”

Meridian’s efforts are in sync with statewide efforts to address overall health of Hoosiers. Indiana’s infant mortality rate fell at the highest rate in six years, with the black infant mortality rate declining nearly 16 percent and the rate for Hispanic infants declining nearly 20 percent in 2018.

Data from the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH) show 559 Indiana babies died before the age of 1 in 2018. That number is down from 602 in 2017. The overall infant mortality rate stood at 6.8 per 1,000 babies in 2018, down from 7.3 in 2017.

Indiana has been investing heavily in improving health outcomes for moms and babies as the state works toward Holcomb’s goal of having the lowest infant mortality rate in the Midwest by 2024.

Additionally, Meridian’s two ARCs in Lafayette and Richmond provide residential treatment to clients with structured support for recovery including behavioral therapy, intensive rehabilitation, wellness education and post-treatment support. Residential treatment is based on individual needs but generally lasts 30 days.

While Meridian cannot be all things to all people, its continuum of addictions care continues to grow to meet the needs of the communities it serves.

Governor Eric Holcomb is the recipient of Meridian Health Services’ 2020 Spirit of Meridian Award, a recognition that pays tribute to an individual who demonstrates proactive actions in promoting healthier communities. The annual recognition is awarded to someone who has contributed significantly to the overall health and well-being of people and somebody who goes above and beyond the call of duty.

“We could think of no one who has had more impact in a just a short period of time on the overall health of our state,” said Hank Milius, Meridian’s president and chief executive officer.

Governor Holcomb has identified healthcare as a major initiative in his legislative agenda and specifically focused on attacking the opioid crisis as one of his five pillars of accountability. Holcomb, on his first day in office in 2017, appointed the state’s first drug czar, tackling addiction and the state’s anti-drug efforts.

“In large part, the governor’s priorities mirror the ongoing work at Meridian. His support of these initiatives and demonstrating clear achievements made him our first choice for this annual award,” Milius said.

Holcomb reinforces his healthcare initiatives in the 2020 Next Level Agenda, which includes adding more recovery housing for Hoosiers coping with substance use disorder, more mental healthcare services, tools to assess substance use disorder in pregnancy, and prioritizes reducing neonatal abstinence syndrome.

The governor’s agenda also includes expanding recovery housing for people fighting opioid use. In addition, Holcomb’s efforts to influence Indiana’s infant mortality rate are showing signs of great improvement. Indiana’s infant mortality rate fell at the highest rate in six years.

The award will be given to Holcomb at the 2020 Rialzo, Meridian’s annual charity gala, which is April 18 at the Horizon Convention Center in Muncie, Indiana.

These frozen pops combine two Southern faves: sweet tea and mint juleps! They’re sure to get your crowd in the Derby frame of mind!

INGREDIENTS
- 2 cups water
- 2 family-size tea bags
- 1 cup firmly packed fresh mint leaves
- 1 cup cold water
- 3/4 cup bourbon
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 12 (3-oz.) paper cups
- 12 mint leaves (optional)
- 12 small lemon slices (optional)
- 12 (3 1/2-inch) food-safe wooden ice-cream spoons

HOW TO MAKE IT

STEP 1
Bring 2 cups water to a boil in a 2-qt. saucepan. Remove from heat, add tea bags, and stir in 1 cup firmly packed fresh mint leaves. Cover and steep 10 minutes. Discard tea bags and mint. Stir in 1 cup cold water, bourbon, sugar, and lemon juice, stirring until sugar dissolves. Pour mixture into paper cups; add a mint leaf and small lemon slice to each, if desired.

STEP 2
Cover each cup with aluminum foil; make a small slit in center, and insert 1 ice-cream spoon into each cup. Freeze 8 hours or until firm.

YIELD:
Makes 12 pops
